

Investing in a New Multilateralism: A Smart Power Approach to the United Nations

Featured Speaker: Ambassador John Negroponte
Former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations

Commentary by: The Honorable Timothy E. Wirth
President, United Nations Foundation

Ambassador Negroponte and Senator Wirth will discuss the future opportunities and obstacles for revitalizing U.S. engagement with the United Nations.

Monday, May 11th, 2:30 p.m. – 4:00 p.m.
CSIS B1 Conference Center
1800 K Street NW, Washington, DC 20006

The Smart Power Initiative features policymakers, practitioners and opinion leaders from around the world and across the political spectrum to engage in a discussion on U.S. Smart Power. The Initiative is an outgrowth of the CSIS Commission on Smart Power.

Investing in a New Multilateralism is a recently released CSIS report that focuses on the United Nations' value to the U.S. as a multilateral Smart Power tool. The report identifies and assesses key areas where, with leadership, commitment, and cooperation, the United States can work with the United Nations and other members of the international community to break through the obstacles to progress and reinvigorate the multilateral systems. The report examines opportunities for immediate collaboration with the United Nations by the new U.S. administration in the areas of peacekeeping and peacebuilding, global health, and climate change, plus managing humanitarian operations. To learn more and view the report visit: www.csis.org/smartpower/UNreport

RSVP by emailing Jeffrey Bean at jbean@csis.org or by calling 202-887-0200 x3351. This event is by invitation only.